

Matt Tommey Biography

Matt Tommey is a studio artist working in Asheville, North Carolina's River Arts District. Since the mid-1990's Matt has created organic, woven sculpture based in basketry that reflects the rustic elegance of nature. These days, his works are featured in some of the most beautiful luxury mountain homes in the country and are created from locally harvested bark, vines and branches sourced from the property of his clients.

Matt is a member of the Southern Highland Craft Guild (2011), National Basketry Organization (2010), was listed on the "American Artist Under 40" Registry by the Smithsonian American Art Museum's Renwick Gallery (2011) and has been featured in numerous international, national and regional publications. For more about Matt and his work, visit www.MattTommey.com.